by the British Consul at that point in honor of Queen Victoria's birthday. There are about fifty people in the picture; prominent in the front row, seated on the grass in a carelees attitude is that Wheeling favorite Hon. John M. Birch, the Consul from this country to that point. A broad brimmed straw hat lies on the grass beside him showing him to be a little balder than when he left here. In his hand he has a gold headed cane presented to him in 1880 by the Young Men's Democratic Club. It is an excellent picture of him. A number of ladies and Japanese dignataries are in the picture together with representatives from other countries. Consul Birch writes that he proposed to give a garden party on the Fourth of July that should be on a scale fitting the dignity and importance of his country. He expressed a fear that there would not be a Government ship in port that day, and that he would thereby be deprived of the company of the officers in their gold lace uniforms, the band, flags and cannons with which to fire a National salute. Mr. Birch's friends here have no doubt that he did the honors on the Nation's birthday in a fitting manner.

NATURAL GAS WELLS

SHUTTING THE SUPPLY DOWN To Prevent Wasteful Blowing off at the Wells-Some Interesting Devices Employpany's Operations-Pipe Laying.

The Natural Gas Company of West Vir ginia yesterday commenced laying a four-inch pipe on Chapline street, north of This square is to be paved with fire brick, and the brick are already on the ground. The company's pipe runs down the west side of the street. Work is also progressing on this company's line in North Wheeling. The Wheeling Natural Gas Company has eight or more squares of pipe laid in he Fourth ward, and the testing is still in progress. This company's line is laid out from the river about five miles and about four miles westward from the east end. There are about four miles laid on the other side of the river. The company expects to have gas here about the middle of August.

In addition to the three wells of the Wheeling company which have recently come in big gassers in the Hickory field, they have three more which will be in inside of thirty days. They have a well, the Harbison No. 5, well under way, drilling having commenced about two weeks ago, the derrick up for Harbison No. 6, and three more wells located, making eleven wells in all which promise to be 500 nounders without exception. 500 pounders without exception.

The Wheeling company, Mr. Williams says, proposes to shut off the gas at its wells to prevent waste. The wells are cased down 600 feet with $\frac{3}{2}$ inch casing the casing the form of the hole to the bottom—about the top of the hole to the bottom—about $2,200 feet—a four inch standard pipe is inserted.

Difficulty was experienced in getting the shot down the hole, the flow of gas being so strong it blew the shot into the air. This was overcome by a device suggested by Superintendent Rose. A standing pipe, six feet high, connected with the space about the four-inch pipe, is furnished with valves at the top and bottom. Yesterday a number of boys were in swimming in the creek at the foot of Chapline street. The neighbors complained, and Capt. Smith, telephoning to Officer Grubler, went down. Grubler did not put in his appearence quite simultaneously with the Captain, and the boys acrambled out on the south side, gathered up their clothee and climbed the hill to the "Cutroad," atopping there in the sun to dress. One boy had unfortunately left his clothee on the north bank, and the Captain got him, but let him go after giving him a thorough scare. A boy who will bathe in Wheeling creek is a fit subject for an imbecile saylum. A bath in a swill tub would be as pleasant and quite as healthy.

THE ENQUIRER'S MARIES NIST. FOUND IN THE RIVER,

ment about town yesterday at the Regie ter's echo of the Cincinnati Enquirer's strained sensation based on Mr. Menager's strained sensation based on Mr. Menager's private letter to a number of Republicans of West Virginia. The Register's announcement that it was 'not necessary to tell how" that paper secured the letter of Mr. Menager was considered very funny, for those who had not seen the publication with due credit, in the Isymilicance, together with Mr. Menager's frank schnowledgement that the was responsible for the letter and the views expressed in it, and was not ashamed of it. Benublicans expressed graiffication at Mr. Menager's prompt and manily utterance in regard to the matter, and his willingness to accept whatever consequences might follow. Both Democrats and Republicans languad at the way in which the Register's sensation had been flattened out by the Isymilicancer's publication at Mr. Menager's prompt and manily utterance in regard to the matter, and his willingness to accept whatever consequences might follow. Both Democrats and Republicans languad at the way in which the Register's sensation had been flattened out by the Isymilicance of Republicans and Rep ilication.

As the Register remarked, Monday was a dull day, and the editorial staff of that paper fell very jubilant when the arrival of the Enquirer turnished matter to fill so much space. The boys celebrated the timely arrival in a novel manner, and at the same time untied a G rdian knot which has defied the ingenuity of the whole nation for a generation. They found a use for the Congressional Record. A thick copy of this able magasine was tightly tied with twine about a jumbo jackson cracker, and the cracker then exploded. The report made more of a sensation than the publication yesterday.

Persons having the slightest knowledge Persons having the slightest knowledge of the Republican organization and its make-up in West Virginia saw at a glance that there was no factional line drawn in the ranks by Mr. Menager. Persons of all shades of opinion within the party were found in the list, and there was no-body of especial standing who was not represented in person or by some of his iriends. The fact was also commented upon that the Republican State Committee had met since the letter was mailed. ing the sand beneath the pebble, as always has been the case, slate was encountered. The company will endeavor to utilize the gas from the upper vein by shutting off the salt water. This is a difficult undertaking, but the experiment will be tried of forcing a very dry wooden plug down through the water, a hole being bored in the middle to let the water pass up. This will swell at the bottom and fill the hole, and the bailer will then be let down full of cement, which will flow out and set, thus effectually shutting out the water water and leaving a dry hole for the upper vein of gas.

And—hold on there a minute! Wouldn't it be an awful thing for the Register if the Cincinnal Enquirer should take a holiday some day?"

Yesterday was quite as dull a day as Yesterday was quite as dull a day as Monday, and the Register reporter was toiling about shout town in the sun looking for a Republican who would talk mad. Among others, he called on Hon. G. W. Atkinson, a prominent Republican, whose name was not on Mr. Menager's list. In Mr. Atkinson he found a friend of Mr. Menager, who defended him from anything but the best motives. He said he was not at all mad, and did not see what there was in the thing to make any Re-
